Art Unit: 1755

Restriction to one of the following inventions is required under 35 U.S.C. 121:

- I. Claims 1-15, 31, and 74-89, drawn to a method of making colored cement, classified in class 264, subclass 333.
- II. Claims 16-30, 32-46, and 58-73, drawn to a colored cement composition, classified in class 106, subclass 713+.
- III. Claims 47-57 and 90, drawn to a liquid coloring composition, classified in class 562, subclass 887+.

The inventions are distinct, each from the other because of the following reasons:

Inventions I and II are related as process of making and product made. The inventions are distinct if either or both of the following can be shown: (1) that the process as claimed can be used to make another and materially different product or (2) that the product as claimed can be made by another and materially different process (MPEP § 806.05(f)). In the instant case, the colored cement composition must be ultimately shaped and can be made via injection molding, extruding, casting, etc.

Note: Groups I and II can eventually be rejoined if Group II (directed to the cement composition or product is elected and if the claims of elected Group II are found allowable, Group I claims to the method of making may be rejoined if and only if these methods claims are of the same exact scope as the allowed product claims. If Group III is elected, this is not rejoinable with Groups I or II. See In re Ochiai.

Art Unit: 1755

Inventions I and III and II and III are unrelated. Inventions are unrelated if it can be shown that they are not disclosed as capable of use together and they have different designs, modes of operation, and effects (MPEP § 802.01 and § 806.06). In the instant case, the different inventions have different designs, modes of operations, and effects and are mutually exclusive as shown by their patentably distinct characteristics. The liquid coloring composition can be used in a different design, mode of operation, and for a different effect for an entirely different medium other than cement. The liquid coloring suspension can be used for paint or plastics (e.g. polymers) for coloring and is not limited to cement as the medium.

Inventions II and III are related as mutually exclusive species in an intermediate-final product relationship. Distinctness is proven for claims in this relationship if the intermediate product is useful to make other than the final product, and the species are patentably distinct (MPEP § 806.05(j)). In the instant case, the intermediate product is deemed to be useful as a colorant for paint or plastics and the inventions are deemed patentably distinct because there is nothing on this record to show them to be obvious variants.

Because these inventions are independent or distinct for the reasons given above and there would be a serious burden on the examiner if restriction is not required because the inventions have acquired a separate status in the art in view of their different classification and search, restriction for examination purposes as indicated is proper.

Art Unit: 1755

Applicant is advised that the reply to this requirement to be complete must include (i) an election of a species or invention to be examined even though the requirement be traversed (37 CFR 1.143) and (ii) identification of the claims encompassing the elected invention.

The election of an invention or species may be made with or without traverse. To reserve a right to petition, the election must be made with traverse. If the reply does not distinctly and specifically point out supposed errors in the restriction requirement, the election shall be treated as an election without traverse.

Should applicant traverse on the ground that the inventions or species are not patentably distinct, applicant should submit evidence or identify such evidence now of record showing the inventions or species to be obvious variants or clearly admit on the record that this is the case. In either instance, if the examiner finds one of the inventions unpatentable over the prior art, the evidence or admission may be used in a rejection under 35 U.S.C.103(a) of the other invention.
